The Collection

The Mdina By Midnight Musical Scores Collection was founded in 2001 by Maltese musicologist and composer Dr. John Galea. The collection is housed in the historic Palazzo Falson, a 15th-century palace that has been restored to its former glory.

The collection includes a wide range of musical genres, from medieval manuscripts to 20th-century compositions. There are works by some of the greatest composers in history, including Johann Sebastian Bach, Wolfgang Amadeus Mozart, and Ludwig van Beethoven. There are also works by lesser-known composers, as well as traditional Maltese music.

The Stories Behind the Music

Each musical score in the collection tells a story. Some of these stories are well-known, such as the story of Bach's Brandenburg Concertos. Others are more obscure, such as the story of the Maltese composer Paolino Vassallo, who wrote the first Maltese opera in 1863.

Dr. Galea has spent years researching the stories behind the music in the collection. He has uncovered fascinating details about the composers, the performers, and the audiences who experienced this music over the centuries.

The Musical Heritage of Mdina

Mdina has a long and rich musical history. The city was a center of music learning and performance during the Middle Ages and the Renaissance. In the 17th and 18th centuries, Mdina was home to a number of opera houses and concert halls.

The Mdina By Midnight Musical Scores Collection is a valuable resource for scholars and musicians who are interested in the musical history of Mdina and Malta. The collection also provides a glimpse into the lives and works of some of the greatest composers in history.

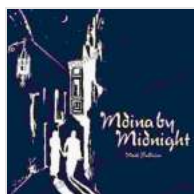

Visiting the Collection

The Mdina By Midnight Musical Scores Collection is open to the public by appointment. Visitors can view the collection and learn about the stories behind the music. The collection is also used for concerts, lectures, and other educational programs.
