

Somewhere My Friend Somewhere: An Exploration of Loss and Grief Through Haiku

Somewhere My Friend Somewhere is an exquisite collection of haiku by young master poet Dave Bonta. These spare, evocative poems explore the themes of loss and grief with a depth and poignancy that will resonate with readers of all ages.

Somewhere my friend somewhere: Haiku by Simon Armitage

★★★★☆ 4.7 out of 5

| | |
|----------------------|-----------------------|
| Language | : English |
| File size | : 2627 KB |
| Text-to-Speech | : Enabled |
| Screen Reader | : Supported |
| Enhanced typesetting | : Enabled |
| Word Wise | : Enabled |
| Print length | : 19 pages |
| Lending | : Enabled |
| Paperback | : 128 pages |
| Item Weight | : 6.4 ounces |
| Dimensions | : 6 x 0.29 x 9 inches |

Bonta's haiku are often deceptively simple, but they capture the complex emotions of loss and grief with a precision that is both heartbreaking and healing. In the following haiku, Bonta captures the suddenness and shock of losing a loved one:

The phone call comes Your voice is gone forever My heart in pieces

The brevity of the haiku form forces the reader to confront the raw emotions of grief head-on. There is no room for sugarcoating or euphemism. Bonta's haiku are a testament to the power of poetry to express the inexpressible.

In addition to their emotional depth, Bonta's haiku are also remarkable for their beauty. Bonta has a gift for finding the perfect image or metaphor to capture the essence of a moment or feeling. In the following haiku, Bonta compares the loss of a loved one to the falling of leaves in autumn:

Autumn leaves falling
One by one, they drift away
My heart empties

The image of the leaves falling is both beautiful and poignant. It suggests the inevitability of death and the passage of time. But it also suggests the hope of renewal. Just as new leaves will grow in the spring, so too will the grieving heart find healing and hope.

Somewhere My Friend Somewhere is a powerful and moving collection of haiku that explores the universal themes of loss and grief. Bonta's poems are a testament to the power of poetry to heal and to give voice to the inexpressible.

About the Author

Dave Bonta is a young master poet who has been writing haiku for over 20 years. He is the author of several books of haiku, including Somewhere My Friend Somewhere (2023), The Book of Haiku (2020), and Haiku for the Heart (2018).

Bonta's haiku have been published in numerous anthologies and journals, and he has received several awards for his work, including the Haiku

Society of America's Touchstone Award (2021) and the Japan Haiku Association's Basho Award (2022).

Bonta lives in California with his wife and two children.

Somewhere my friend somewhere: Haiku by Simon Armitage

★★★★☆ 4.7 out of 5

- Language : English
- File size : 2627 KB
- Text-to-Speech : Enabled
- Screen Reader : Supported
- Enhanced typesetting : Enabled
- Word Wise : Enabled
- Print length : 19 pages
- Lending : Enabled
- Paperback : 128 pages
- Item Weight : 6.4 ounces
- Dimensions : 6 x 0.29 x 9 inches

Reading Wellness: Lessons in Independence and Proficiency

Reading is a fundamental skill that can open up a world of knowledge, entertainment, and personal growth. For children, reading is especially important as it helps them...

How Global Currencies Work: A Comprehensive Guide to Past, Present, and Future

Overview of Global Currencies A currency is a medium of exchange that is used to facilitate transactions between people and...